BHUBANESWAR: Entrepreneurship is the solution to eliminate poverty in India, said Infosys founder NR Narayana Murthy on Wednesday. "The only way to solve poverty in the country is to create more jobs with better income. This requires entrepreneurship and we need to have more engineers, scientists, bureaucrats and politicians that have a mindset to promote entrepreneurship," Murthy said in his virtual address as the chief guest during the 10th convocation ceremony of IIT Bhubaneswar (IIT-BBS) organised in hybrid mode due to COVID-19 pandemic.

He advised the students to look for opportunities beyond government establishments. "We must seek the opportunities that are outside government control. That is where big opportunities lie and corruption is minimum. That is where merit will be recognised and quality jobs can be created to solve the problem of poverty in our country," he said.

Stating that India has too much under-employment in the agriculture sector, he stressed on the need for creation of more employment opportunities in the manufacturing and service sectors. He underlined that English is the only window to the modern world for the Indians to access knowledge and achieve progress in science and technology, economy and other fields.

The Infosys founder encouraged students to find solutions to the problems that they see around them instead of trying to run away from it. "The best way to escape a problem is to solve it," he said. Chairman of Board of Governors at IIT-BBS Rajendra Prashad Singh also urged students to use technology as a tool to eliminate poverty and ensure basic needs for all.

IIT-BBS Director Prof RV Raja Kumar said that over the years the students strength of the institute has increased to 2,419 of which 10 per cent are being reserved for candidates belonging to economically weaker sections.

He informed that the institute had received around Rs 850 crore for its phase II expansion in 2016-17. "Sixty-five per cent work has already been completed and the remaining is in progress," the Director said and added that efforts are on to make IIT-BBS a green campus.

During the convocation, the institute conferred degrees on 559 students including 35 PhDs, 153 MTech degrees, 256 BTech degrees and 36 dual degrees. The President of India Gold Medal was awarded to Dinesh Mohanty, a student of Computer Science, for the best academic performance among the outgoing BTech students.

More jobs with better pay can curb poverty: N Narayana Murthy

Hemanta Pradhan / TNN / Updated: Oct 21, 2021, 12:08 IST

BHUBANESWAR: The only way to fight poverty in India is to create more jobs with better salaries, and this requires entrepreneurship, Infosys founder N Narayana Murthy said while attending the tenth convocation of IIT Bhubaneswar through a videoconference on Wednesday.

He said the country's agriculture sector suffers from massive underemployment. "Hence, we must create jobs in manufacturing and service sectors. We need more engineers, scientists, bureaucrats and politicians that have the mindset to encourage entrepreneurship," Murthy opined.

He added that people often take the easy route of naming the system for the ills of society. "The best minds accept that most of the solutions to most of our problems lie within us. The best way to escape from a problem is to solve it."

The former chairman of the tech giant said leadership is about action and not about shouting slogans. "Anything less will not take you to the top.," he added.

Leadership is about action, says Murthy

SUBHASHISH MOHANTY

Bhubaneswar: Infosys founder N.R. Narayana Murthy on Wednesday exhorted students of the Indian Institute of Technology, Bhubaneswar, to try to excel in whatever they do and not to consider anything small.

"You must need to change yourself if you want to see change in the world. Look at every lacuna as an opportunity for change. You are the leader to bring about the change," Narayana Murthy said while addressing students at the 10th convocation of IIT Bhubaneswar.

Addressing students through the virtual mode, he urged them to develop entrepreneurship attitude and show the character of a leader: "Leadership is about action and not about rhetoric," Narayana Murthy said.

Urging students to be good citizens, he said that everybody needs to work to develop a society where every citizen gets equal opportunities and every child gets food. "We have to build a society which is based on performance and not empty slogans. We need to put the country's interests, society's interests and the company's interests where you are working above the individual's interest," he said.

Recalling Mahatma Gandhi's statement that his mission was "to wipe every tear from every eye", Narayana Murthy said: "Our country has been successful in sending rockets, satellites, building big dams, bridges, a good education system, globally competitive software industry. But on the other hand, we are far from the dreams of Mahatma Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel and Rajendra Prasad) babu of creating India where every Indian would be provided the wherewithal to develop and rise to his/her fullest stature, and where poverty, ill health, and ignorance would have vanished."

Urging the students to demonstrate excellence in whatever they do, Narayana Murthy said: "The only way to solve poverty is to create more and more jobs with better and better income. This requires entrepreneurship. We have too much underemployment in the agriculture sector. Hence, we must create jobs in the manufacturing and service sectors," he said, adding that the best way to escape from a problem is to solve it.

Stressing the need to explore the world, he said one needs to go outside the government set-up where lies great opportunity and also great challenges.

He also stressed on the need for a good English education system. "Please remember that English is the only window to the modern world for Indians to access knowledge to achieve progress in science, technology, medicine and economy for India," Narayana Murthy said.

Rajendra Prasad Singh, chairman, board of governors, urged the students to promote technology based on culture and not to forget the fundamentals of life. "We have not delivered what we should have — roti, kapda and makan."

IIT director R.V. Raja Kumar narrated the institute's journey of 10 years. "The convocation is a celebration of the graduation of students who earned their degrees with important learning during their peak youthhood and the institute is keen on their live participation. Therefore, the institute has come up with this very unique and innovative form of holding convocation during the last convocation itself and the same is being adopted this time too due to the continuation of pandemic."

The IIT conferred degrees upon 559 students, including 35 PhD, 153 MTech, 79 MSc, 256 BTech and 36 dual degrees. The President of India Gold Medal awarded to Dinesh Mohanty of the computer science and engineering stream for the best academic performance among the entire outgoing BTech batch.

Creating more jobs only way to eradicate poverty: Murthy

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Oct 20: Infosys co-founder Narayana Murthy Wednesday said the only way to solve poverty in the country is to create more and more jobs with better incomes. He also said that being a good citizen is about treating the society as one's own.

He said this while addressing the 10th annual convocation of the IIT Bhubaneswar in virtual mode. Murthy underlined that the only way to solve poverty in the country was to create more and more jobs with better incomes.

"I have tremendous confidence in the power of youth, values, aspirations, energy, confidence, determination, discipline and enthusiasm," Murthy said in his address.

"But then, that requires that you people do some hard thinking, some introspection and are determined to do what the previous generations have not done," the 75-year-old said.

He stressed on the need to create a civilised society where every citizen has equal opportunity to better one's life, every child has food, shelter, healthcare and education, and a society that focused on performance rather than empty slogans, among others.

Murthy, who was the chief guest at the convocation, told the IIT graduates to "be good citizens first and then be good people".

"In India, most of us are kind, courteous and generous to our family and perhaps to our close friends. This is being good people," Murthy elucidated. He said being a good citizen is about treating the society as your own, putting the interests of the society ahead of yours and your family's interest, treating strangers with courtesy and taking care of the commons.

"Somehow, we do not care about responsibility towards people outside the family and friends' orbit," Murthy rued.

That's why we see corruption, people cleaning their homes and throwing the dirt on to public roads and that's why you see complete lack of civic sense, according to the Infosys founder.

"Remember, that this country belongs to you!" he said.

Murthy underscored that education was extremely important in creating a stabilised society.

"We must create jobs in the manufacturing and the services sector. We need more engineers, scientists, bureaucrats and politicians that have a mindset to encourage entrepreneurship," Murthy said.

He highlighted that English is the 'only window' in the modern world for Indians to access knowledge and achieve progress in science, technology, arts, medicine and economy

Narayana Murthy confident about India's youth, urges them to be 'good people'

PTI • Last Updated: Oct 21, 2021, 12:48 PM IST

Synopsis

Murthy stressed on the need for a civilised society where every citizen has equal opportunity.

Narayana Murthy wants the youth to think hard, introspect and determine to do what the previous generations have not done.

BHUBANESWAR: Infosys co-founder Narayana Murthy said on Tuesday that being a good citizen is about treating the society as one's own. Speaking at the 10th annual convocation of the IIT Bhubaneswar in a virtual mode, Murthy underlined that the only way to solve poverty in the country was to create more and more jobs with better income.

"I have tremendous confidence in the power of youth, values, aspirations, energy, confidence, determination, discipline and enthusiasm," Murthy said in his address.

"But then, that requires that you people do some hard thinking, some introspection and are determined to do what the previous generations have not done," the 75-year-old said.

He stressed on the need to create a civilised society where every citizen has equal opportunity to better one's life, every child has food, shelter, healthcare and education, and a society that focused on performance rather than empty slogans, among others.

Murthy, who was the chief guest at the convocation, told the IIT graduates to "be good citizens first and then be good people".

"In India, most of us are kind, courteous and generous to our family, and perhaps to our close friends. This is being good people," Murthy elucidated.

He said being a good citizen is about treating the society as your own, putting the interests of the society ahead of yours and your family's interest, treating strangers with courtesy and taking care of the commons.

"Somehow, we do not care about responsibility towards people outside the family and friends' orbit," Murthy rued.

That's why, one see corruption, people cleaning their homes and throwing the dirt on to public roads and that's why you see complete lack of civic sense, according to the Infosys founder.

"Remember, that this country belongs to you!" he said.

Murthy underscored that education was extremely important in creating a stabilised society.

Education is about assuming responsibility in society. Responsibility to show fairness to the less fortunate citizens, responsibility to create a future that the posterity can be proud of, he said.

Murthy added that the only way to solve poverty in the country was to create more and more jobs with better income.

This requires entrepreneurship, he added.

"We must create jobs in the manufacturing and the services sector. We need more engineers, scientists, bureaucrats and politicians that have a mindset to encourage entrepreneurship," Murthy said.

He highlighted that English is the 'only window' in the modern world for Indians to access knowledge and achieve progress in science, technology, arts, medicine and economy.
