Cleanliness drive, safe water campaign, non-violent communication — these were some of the ways in which Mahatma Gandhi's 151st birth anniversary was celebrated across campuses.

CBSE

The Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) launched an orientation course in non-violent communication, in association with Gandhi Smriti & Darshan Samitii. The course is being offered without any registration fee/course fee. For more details, check the tweet below.

Jamia Millia Islamia

The Dean Students Welfare (DSW) Office organised a Fit India Freedom Run for students, faculty members and non-teaching staff of the university. This was followed by a tree plantation drive. An online lecture on Relevance of Gandhi in Contemporary India marked the occasion. A poster-making competition was also held

IIT Bhubaneswar

A Swatch Bharat Abhiyan was organised to reiterate Gandhi's love and advocacy for cleanliness. Participants not only cleaned the campus but also the neighbourhood.

VAIBHAV Summit

Vaishvik Bhartiya Vaigyanik, VAIBHAV Summit, was virtually inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. More than 3000 Indian-origin academics and scientists from 200 institutions spread across 55 countries and more than 10,000 resident academics and scientists are taking part in the summit.

University of Delhi

The Department of Social Work, Delhi University, hosted an International Webinar Series on Gandhian Thoughts and Social Work Practice.

Jawaharlal Nehru University

Gandhi Saptah was organised from September 27 to October 2. Students and faculty members took part in tree plantation, oratory and essay competitions and cultural programmes.

Follow the Mahatma

Children in The Netherlands joined the grand finale of the two-year celebrations to mark the 151st anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi's birth. A Follow the Mahatma campaign to spread Gandhi's message of non-violence marked the day.
