IIT Delhi continues its top run. The primary focus at the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT)-Delhi is to encourage a culture of entrepreneurship and research, right from the BTech to the PhD level. To encourage the spirit of entrepreneurship among the faculty as well, India's top-ranked engineering college has started a weekly initiative called Faculty Innovation and Research Entrepreneurship (FIRE), where faculty members who wish to turn their research work into a start-up can work on their projects, which would be funded by the institute. Of the 21 unicorns built by IITians, 11 are by Delhi IITians, says V. Ramgopal Rao, the institute's director.
